ABOUT TH WEBINAR

The global crises with wide spreading of Covid -19 is not only creating chaos on the health of people, economy but also tremendous impact on education due to the sudden closure of universities, colleges, and schools. At this juncture, the only hope is technology which plays an important role during the lockdown. Association of Indian Universities (AIU) has therefore taken the lead to create a platform wherein the member Indian universities can share the e-content, e-lectures, approaches, and strategies adopted by them for delivery of online content to the students to prevent academic loss. The concept of learn at home not only reduces the college expenditure but also gives an opportunity to the teacher to understand the social condition of a student and modify his/her methodology of teaching and design new teaching strategies to suit the needs. In this regard, this webinar focuses on reducing gap between the teaching and learning strategies used by urban and rural teachers.

OBJECTIVE

The following are the objectives of the webinar:

1. To find out any significant difference in terms of teachers' attitudes, competence, levels and experiences in technology integration among the rural and the urban elementary engineering colleges

2. To notice any significant difference in terms of students' attitudes, competence and experiences in technology integration among the rural and the urban engineering colleges

3. To identify the impact of student's community on online teaching
